

Programme ALTE Introductory Course in Language Testing

Course presenters:

Professor Anthony Green, University of Bedfordshire

Ms Jane Lloyd, ALTE Validation Unit

This course introduces core principles guiding the assessment of language abilities. It relates theoretical issues both to the language classroom and to large scale institutional, national and international assessments. The course provides the essential foundations for language assessment practice and for further study in this field.

Participants will learn:

- Principles that inform the decisions that individuals and organisations responsible for language assessment systems have to make about their design, content, implementation and use
- The qualities of language assessments that contribute to their usefulness
- Approaches to the assessment of the skills that language learners need for communicative success
- How to connect tasks found on assessments to the tasks involved in real-world language use
- Practical applications of theoretical and conceptual frameworks in the development and validation of assessments.

The course will provide extensive opportunities for hands-on practice, including in test design, item writing, scoring and quality assurance processes.

Core text – This unit is supported by the following core text which will be sent to each participant, included within the course fee:
