Workshop
Instruments for assessing pluri/intercultural competence - pros and cons

Michael Byram

Workshop - Overview

• Purposes of assessment and models of competence

• Issues in progression

• Ethical issues
Purpose/type of assessment

• In education – focus on achievement
  - models of ICC is what is ‘teachable, learnable and assessable’

• In business and commerce – focus on proficiency
  - models of IC (without language) describing processes of interaction and/or characteristics of people

Intercultural Readiness Check

The Intercultural Readiness Check (IRC) is a valid and reliable intercultural assessment instrument. Feedback on your IRC results offers you numerous insights and suggestions for becoming more effective across cultures.
Models

... identify key elements of:

(a) The whole interaction e.g. between lawyer and teacher

(b) The knowledge skills and attitudes which individuals need in such interactions

Model of individual [teachable] competences: IC and ICC

Issues in assessment:
Progression

• Assessment presupposes observable/measurable progression

Intermediate ‘Investigate’ benchmark: In my own and other cultures I can make comparisons between products and practices to help me understand perspectives.

Performance indicator: In my own and other cultures I can compare products related to everyday life and personal interests or studies.

Performance indicator: In my own and other cultures I can compare practices related to everyday life and personal interests or studies.

Intermediate ‘Interact’ benchmark: I can interact at a functional level in some familiar contexts.

Performance indicator: I can converse with peers from the target culture in familiar situations at school, work, or play, and show interest in basic cultural similarities and differences.

Performance indicator: I can recognize that significant differences in behaviors exist among cultures, use appropriate learned behaviors, and avoid major social blunders.

[Some] Examples: Linking Investigation and Interaction:

Investigate: In my own and other cultures I can compare how and why houses, buildings, and towns affect lifestyles.

Interact: I can use learned behaviors when visiting someone’s home or business, and I can notice when I make a cultural mistake.

Investigate: In my own and other cultures I can compare events and beliefs that drive the creation of a monument or the popularity of a landmark.

Interact: I can show respect when visiting a historical site by dressing appropriately, adjusting the volume of my voice, and acting with consideration for others.
Advanced 'Investigate' benchmark: In my own and other cultures I can explain some diversity among products and practices and how it relates to perspectives.

Performance indicator: In my own and other cultures I can explain how a variety of products of public and personal interest are related to perspectives.

Performance indicator: In my own and other cultures I can explain how a variety of practices within familiar and social situations are related to perspectives.

Advanced 'Interact' benchmark: I can interact at a competent level in familiar and some unfamiliar contexts.

Performance indicator: I can converse comfortably with others from the target culture in familiar and some unfamiliar situations and show some understanding of cultural differences.

Performance indicator: I can demonstrate awareness of subtle differences among cultural behaviors and adjust my behavior accordingly in familiar and some unfamiliar situations.

[Some] Examples: Linking Investigation and Interaction:

Investigate: In my own and other cultures I can describe the cultural influences on the designs of houses, buildings and towns.

Interact: I can adjust my personal space and body language accordingly when interacting with others in a business, school or work environment.

Investigate: In my own and other cultures I can describe and explain how landmarks and monuments contribute to national identity.

Interact: I can manage my non-verbal reactions and personal space when in a crowded environment such as standing in line.
GROUPS   Task – compare and identify how progression is described/defined

Comparison of ‘Intermediate’ and ‘Advanced’
Example.
Intermediate ‘Investigate’:
• In my own and other cultures I can make comparisons between products and practices to help me understand perspectives.

Advanced ‘Investigate’
• AND
• In my own and other cultures I can explain some diversity among products and practices and how it relates to perspectives.

There is a progression from comparison to explanation, from establishing the existence of diversity to explaining it in terms of ‘perspectives,’ i.e., a group’s beliefs and values.

<td>C2</td>
<td>Can initiate and control their actions and forms of expression according to context, showing awareness of cultural differences and making subtle adjustments in order to prevent and/or repair misunderstandings and cultural incidents.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
| C1 | Can identify differences in sociolinguistic/pragmatic conventions, critically reflect on them and adjust their communication accordingly.
Can sensitively explain the background to and interpret and discuss aspects of cultural values and practices drawing on intercultural encounters, reading, film, etc.
Can deal with ambiguity in cross-cultural communication and express their reactions constructively and culturally appropriately in order to bring clarity. |
| B2 | Can describe and evaluate the viewpoints and practices of their own and other social groups, showing awareness of the implicit values on which judgments and prejudices are frequently based.
Can explain their interpretation of the cultural assumptions, preconceptions, stereotypes and prejudices of their own community and of other communities that they are familiar with.
Can interpret and explain a document or event from another culture and relate it to documents or events from their own culture(s) and/or from cultures with which they are familiar.
Can discuss the objectivity and balance of information and opinions expressed in the media about their own and other communities.
Can identify and reflect on similarities and differences in culturally determined behavioural patterns (e.g. gestures and speech volume or, for sign languages, sign size) and discuss their significance in order to negotiate mutual understanding.
Can, in an intercultural encounter, recognise that what one normally takes for granted in a particular situation is not necessarily shared by others, and can react and express themselves appropriately.
Can generally interpret cultural cues appropriately in the culture concerned.
Can reflect on and explain particular ways of communicating in their own and other cultures, and the risks of misunderstanding they generate. |

Descriptors marked with asterisks () represent a high level for B2. They may also be suitable for the C levels.

</table>
| B1     | Can generally act according to conventions regarding posture, eye contact and distance from others.
Can generally respond appropriately to the most commonly used cultural cues.
Can explain features of their own culture to members of another culture or explain features of the other culture to members of their own culture.
Can explain in simple terms how their own values and behaviours influence their views of other people's values and behaviours.
Can discuss in simple terms the way in which things that may look “strange” to them in another sociocultural context may well be “normal” for the other people concerned.
Can discuss in simple terms the way their own culturally determined actions may be perceived differently by people from other cultures. |
| A2     | Can recognise and apply basic cultural conventions associated with everyday social exchanges (e.g. different greetings, rituals).
Can act appropriately in everyday greetings, farewells and expressions of thanks and apology, although they have difficulty coping with any departure from the routine.
Can recognise that their behaviour in an everyday transaction may convey a message different from the one they intend, and can try to explain this simply.
Can recognise when difficulties occur in interaction with members of other cultures, even though they may not be sure how to behave in the situation. |
| A1     | Can recognise differing ways of numbering, measuring distance, telling the time, etc. even though they may have difficulty applying this in even simple everyday transactions of a concrete type. |
| Pre-A1 | No descriptors available |
Task – compare and identify how progression is described/defined - between B1 and A2
BUT: Ethical issues

• General assessor ethics i.e. responsibly of a good assessment – impact on career (and self-esteem?)

• Specific to IC

  • Assessing ‘private and personal preferences made visible’ (Borghetti)

  • Assessing personality e.g. is ‘curiosity’ a personality trait? Is extrovert personality ‘better’ for IC (‘creating relationships’)

Assessing values - ‘personal preferences’

• 2 dimensions [as in CEFR/CV above]:
  • Demonstrate competence - ‘promotes /expresses the view’
  • Accept value - ‘should’ and ‘living together’

‘mutual understanding’/ ‘living together’ ; tolerate beliefs’ –
→ traditional liberal European values BUT ...

What if other values expressed/promoted which are offensive e.g. intolerance?
- RESPECTFULNESS - [see below]

GROUPS

• Task – analyse ‘Knowledge and critical understanding of the self’ – from #Basic to Advanced

• How is progression defined/described?
Ethical issues

• the assessment of competences for democratic culture should satisfy the principles of reliability, validity, equity, respectfulness, transparency and practicality.
Respectfulness

• THEREFORE: Assessment methods ... that violate one or more of these rights of learners should not be used.
• European Court of Human Rights:
• allows freedom of expression even of offensive, shocking or disturbing views - freedom of expression is a foundation of democratic society.
• BUT expressions that spread, incite, promote or justify hatred based on intolerance, - may be necessary to sanction or even prevent such forms of expression - tolerance and respect for the equal dignity of all human beings also a foundation of a culturally diverse democratic society learners should not be merely because the views are offensive, shocking or disturbing.
• THEREFORE IN ASSESSMENT:

However, learners may be censured if the expression of their views constitutes hate speech ...

RFCDC

• For ethical reasons and principles of observation over time → Portfolio

A Portfolio of Competences for Democratic Culture
Standard Version

• Key word: ‘dynamic’
A title page
Title of the Portfolio - learner’s name - Council of Europe statement of purpose of the Portfolio

A list of contents
Changes over time - new experiences, documents and reflections are entered.

A statement of purpose
Learner makes statement their purpose - review and revise over time.

A personal statement
Presentation as they see themselves and as they think others see them. Text, drawings, photos or recordings - can be changed over time.

‘My Activities, Activity Reflections’ and Logbook’
Descriptions of curricular and other activities in the school - events and experiences learners have outside the formal school setting - with documents to demonstrate learner’s use of competences across range of activities, situations and contexts - within and beyond classroom.

Description complemented by Activity Reflections
Logbook- about challenging and/or rewarding experiences - learner’s personal analysis of experiences over time.
A General Reflections section
Retrospective reflections about progression over time.

Logbook is the learner’s independent thinking whereas the General Reflection is guided by the teacher.

e.g. teacher encourages individual learners to link reflections to RFCDC competences OR General Reflections are produced after discussion with others, e.g. with teachers or peers or parents.

A list of the 20 competences

A summary. - learner gives a cross-reference under each competence to specific examples from the documentation.

The list serves both learner and teacher as a general profile of the competences.

Dynamic; learners add to it as they add new activities.
